- Into Ten-to-fifteen Man Units, the Identity of Individuals Known Only to the Chief of the Cell, Who Was in Tum Known Only by His Mock-indian Name. — Devyr, born in Donegal, Ireland, in 1805, published a pamphlet called "Our Natural Rights," in which he states: "I saw that the earth if vigorously tilled would yield plenty of the comforts of life. Willing labor and fertile soil would produce plenty to eat, drink and wear." After publishing the pamphlet, he fled from Ireland, and went to work in London, working for the liberal papers in which he attacked Irish Landlordism. Working class rebels in Newcastle-upon-Tyne asked him to join them. He left London, calling it "that great social wen," and quickly rose to prominence among the Scots fighting for social and political reform. In 1840, he fled Scotland to avoid arrest and landed in New York. Within months, he was at the forefront of the antirent struggles in the Hudson Valley.
