

Guccione solicits Unabomber

The Associated Press

2 May 1995

Guccione

Magazine publisher Bob Guccione said he would publish the Unabomber's manifesto and put his public relations team behind the effort "in order to save lives."

Guccione, chairman of General Media International, which publishes Penthouse and Omni magazines, urged the mail-bomb terrorist in an open letter to “contact me at your earliest convenience.”

In a letter to The New York Times last week, the alleged bomber promised to stop his 17-year reign of terror if a major media outlet published his 29,000-word plus manifesto

“I am making one or several of my magazines available to publicize your message,” Guccione wrote in his open letter, which was faxed to The Associated Press today. “We could publish your entire manuscript at one time, or as you suggest, we could serialize it over two to three months.

“Furthermore,” Guccione said, “I would dedicate our entire public relations operation to help publicize your message.”

Other media outlets reacted with more caution to the Unabomber’s demand Times publisher Arthur Sulzberger said they would “make a journalistic decision about whether to publish it in our pages.” Time and Newsweek, which were specifically mentioned in the Unabomber’s letter, were non-committal.

Officials say the Unabomber has killed three people and wounded 23 others with package bombs in attacks dating back to 1978.

He struck last on April 20, killing a timber industry lobbyist In Sacramento. Calif.

Celebrities

Guccione solicits Unabomber

The Associated Press

Guccione

Magazine publisher Bob Guccione said he would publish the Unabomber's manifesto and put his public relations team behind the effort "in order to save lives."

Guccione, chairman of General Media International, which publishes Penthouse and Omni magazines, urged the mail-bomb terrorist in an open letter to "contact me at your earliest convenience."

In a letter to The New York Times last week, the alleged bomber promised to stop his 17-year reign of terror if a major media outlet published his 29,000-word plus manifesto.

"I am making one or several of my magazines available to publicize your message," Guccione wrote in his open letter, which was faxed to The Associated Press today. "We could publish your entire manuscript at one time, or as you suggest, we could serialize it over two to three months."

"Furthermore," Guccione said, "I would dedicate our entire public relations operation to help publicize your message."

Other media outlets reacted with more caution to the Unabomber's demand.

Times publisher Arthur Sulzberger said they would "make a journalistic decision about whether to publish it in our pages." Time and Newsweek, which were specifically mentioned in the Unabomber's letter, were non-committal.

Officials say the Unabomber has killed three people and wounded 23 others with package bombs in attacks dating back to 1978.

He struck last on April 20, killing a timber industry lobbyist in Sacramento, Calif.

Coming down in sizes

Al Sharpton is whittling down.

The preacher and black activist has lost nearly 75 pounds since July, and — at 232 pounds — he's not done yet. His goal is 210.

Sharpton says his 7-year-old daughter Ashley inspired him to get in shape:

She told him he was fat.

But it was constructive criticism, says the 40-year-old Sharpton, who has traded in his size 54 suits for size 48.

"I'm lean and mean and will last longer on the scene," he says in yesterday's New York Daily News.

Delay pleases Collins's fans

Collins

Against all odds, Phil Collins made his Puerto Rican debut.

Collins was two hours late for the show Saturday night after he and his crew were detained in Caracas, Venezuela.

The concert's promoters apparently had failed to pay production taxes after a show there, a radio station reported.

The San Juan crowd of 17,000 didn't seem to mind the delay as Collins performed "Against All Odds" and "In the Air Tonight" in a set of more than 20 songs.

The concert was the last leg of a Latin American tour that included Puerto Rico, Venezuela, Argentina and Peru.

Dr. Quinn, Medicine Wife

The Ted K Archive

The Associated Press
Guccione solicits Unabomber
2 May 1995

Concord Monitor, 2 May 1995, Page 24.

www.thetedkarchive.com